

Ramona Magazine Ramona Collective Intern

Hello! Thanks for taking the time to read more about the Ramona Collective Intern position at Ramona Magazine for Girls. We hope you consider applying if you think you're a good fit!

The position will be three months long. All roles within the Ramona team are voluntary and unpaid. We do our work purely from a place of passion and any money we make through advertising and magazine sales go directly back into funding the magazine to keep things going. However, joining the Ramona team will absolutely be an enriching and exciting experience; you'll get to join an amazing, loving community, gain some great experience, and hopefully even pad your resume!

Responsibility for the Ramona Collective Intern include:

- Conducting Ramona Collective Meet and Amazing Babes interviews
- Seeking out and reaching out to potential new Ramona Collective individuals to feature
- Editing Ramona Collective interviews and features
- Writing bi-monthly "Women We Love" article
- Emailing with Ramona Collective contributors
- Communicating with and reporting to Freya, our Editor-In-Chief, over email

The position requires about 2 hours a week. You would need to be able to check your email every week day.

We're looking for someone who:

- Has experience with editing
- Ideally has experience with interviewing
- Is passionate about feminism, the arts, and female empowerment
- Is dedicated, hard-working, and responsible, but also loves to have fun
- Has great communication skills

- Is proficient in Google Drive systems like Google Docs
- Is patient, compassionate, and respectful
- Enjoys working with and talking to teens
